A THREE BAGGER ON A BASE HIT RUMFORD.

Tim Conway Had The Bottles on His Person.

Ross and Gillis Get The Tug, $100 and 60 Days.

Last Thursday night about half past eight, Deputies Niles and Small were searching the laundry building on Canal street for liquor. They were in a room occupied by Tim Conway, and found evidence of liquor in the trunk there. Stepping out a few minutes and returning they found Conway had returned. A search of his person resulted in finding five pints of whiskey. Conway was ordered to open his trunk, and there were found five more pints. Timothy was very much unnerved, and made confession to the officer that he was acting as a carrier for Wm. Ross. Ross was arrested and Friday morning was arraigned before Judge Stearns. Attorney Blanchard appeared for Ross. Timothy was a witness for the State. The court conducted the case for the State. After the officers explained the situation as above related and Timothy corroborated the story, Blanchard got after Tim and there was a contest between them in which Tim's Irish wit played a conspicuous part, and showed that he would have been a good lawyer had he taken up that profession. Attorney Blanchard kept digging until he disclosed through Tim's admissions that the whiskey was stored in John Gillis' house on Canal street. As soon as that was known the deputy sheriff went in search of Gillis. Mr. Blanchard thinking that his client would be benefited by Gillis' testimony asked for an adjournment. At two o'clock the court opened, and Ross was sentenced to pay $100 and to serve 60 days in jail. Instead of Gillis being a witness he was arraigned on charge of keeping and depositing, and was sentenced to the same penalty that had been given Ross. Then Timothy Conway was arraigned, and given the same sentence, but with the promise from the court to use its influence to have the case dismissed when it comes to the Supreme Court, in consideration of Timothy's aid to the State. The court required bonds from Timothy for fear if he was allowed to go on his own recognizance that he might be missing at the appointed time. Ross and Gillis appealed. Gillis gave bonds for his appearance, but Ross was unable to give bonds and was committed. Timothy Conway had some difficulty in getting bonds, but succeeded after a while.

Geo. A. Hatchings Esq. surprised his friends in Rumford by returning to the village last Monday night with a bride. He had been away for a week supposedly on business. Mr. Hatchings was married to Miss Cassie K. Demerits of Portland in the town of Whitefield, N. H. Saturday July 17th.

GOSPEL MEETINGS BY THE ADVENTS

In Rumford. Tent at Corner Hancock & Lincoln.

First Meeting Wednesday Night At 7.30 O'clock.

Rev. Henry C. Giles of Bath and Rev. A. J. Verrill of Mechanic Falls, are in charge of the Advent meetings that began in Rumford Wednesday night. They have a commodious tent pitched near the corner of Hancock and Lincoln Ave. They give lectures every night at 7.45 and hold Bible studies at 3 in the afternoons. These lectures cannot fail to be of great interest and benefit to the people, for these men are thoroughly posted, and are among the best Bible scholars in the State. They illustrate their pictures by charts and all the great prophecies are explained in the Advent faith. The following are some of the principles set forth at the opening meeting. A Protestant sect. Belief in the Bible as the word of God from Genesis to Revelations. That Christians should acknowledge no other rule of faith. The seventh day (Saturday) is the God appointed day for rest and worship. The second coming of Christ. He will accept those who have fully accepted his salvation. They believe their mission is to warn the people of the coming end. They believe the prophecies of the Bible foretell the end of the present life of man. They believe the end to be near at hand. They are a part of a great propaganda work now being carried on by the Advents throughout the world. They also are affiliated with the Religious Liberty League.

CO. B. THE GUESTS OF E. W. HOWE, SUNDAY.

Saturday night the Military Company of Rumford, under charge of Capt. Blanchard, marched out to E. W. Howe's farm on the Swain road where they were the guests of Mr. Howe over Sunday. The Rumford band accompanied them, and one of the most enjoyable times that the company has ever had was enjoyed. Sunday they drilled four hours, and were at the time under a strict military order as if at muster. The camp was broken about 4:30 p. m. Sunday, and the boys marched in, arriving about 6 o'clock. There were many visitors at the camp Sunday afternoon. The boys are profuse in their thanks to Mr. Howe for the good time given them.

RESIGNATION OF C. G. BISHOP.

Chester G. Bishop, for eight years Assistant Postmaster at Rumford, has resigned his position. The action was taken at short notice Tuesday morning July 20th. There is no explanation of the resignation made at the post office for publication. The resignation was a surprise to the public, although it is said that in the office the possibility of such an act on his part was known for some time before it was taken. The reports on the street this week regarding an investigation are not authorized by any circumstance that we can learn. Politics cut no figure in the matter. That Mr. Bishop would have been asked to resign by Postmaster Atwood, is true. In view of that circumstance, it is within the privileges of the service for Mr. Bishop to demand an investigation. The report that intemperance habits caused the resignation is not true. That much is positively affirmed.

A DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL GATHERING

At the Home of the Misses Gibson.

A most attractive social gathering was that given by the Misses Gibson, at their home, Tuesday, July 20th from 3 to 5 p. m., to introduce their cousin, Miss Caverly at Newfield and also in honor of her birthday anniversary. The time was pleasantly spent in chatting and prepossessing conversation, the manner to which showed the ready wit of those in attendance. The serving of delectable refreshments closed a delightful afternoon.

PUBLIC FEELING AT A HIGH PITCH

In Rumford Over The Arrest of John Orino

For Sunday Opening. History of The Case to Date.

The arrest and imprisonment of John Orino in Rumford, Monday, was the climax of the Sunday opening trouble here. The public interest in the case was at fever heat, and was the cause of much talk during the afternoon and evening Monday and Tuesday all day. At 10 a. m., Tuesday the case was heard in the Municipal court. Judge Stearns imposed a fine of $10.00 and costs. Orino appealed the case and gave bonds for his appearance at the October term of the Supreme court. The facts in the case are as follows: When County Attorney Parker notified the fruit and tobacco stores that he was going to see that the Sunday laws were enforced, Mr. Orino, who is a high class Italian from the northern provinces of Italy, having more of the Swiss character than the Italian, closed his store Sundays. In a few weeks he saw that the other stores kept open, and that all the usual Sunday work was going on. He made a visit to County Attorney Parker, and reported that he was received with a lack of civility. He however decided to open his store, and see if the law would be "put to him" and all the others alike. As a result, Mr. Orino was called into court and fined. The day he kept open he obtained evidence that at least a dozen other places sold goods on that day contrary to the law. That fact was as apparent to the officers as to anyone else. Orino was the only man arrested. Mr. Orino, to find out the status of justice asked Judge Stearns for warrants for the arrest of the others. The Judge refused, on the ground that they would be "spite warrants." Mr. Orino then wrote the Governor asking why he could not get warrants issued. The following is the reply returned by Assistant Attorney General Charles P. Barnes. "I have carefully read your communication with the enclosed clipping and beg to state that the laws of our State accord to a justice of a court, considerable discretion in the matter of granting of warrants. In case the discretion of the justice is abused the only remedy is impeachment proceedings."

RECITAL AT BETHEL.

Friday evening the parlors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Purlington, were most hospitably thrown open for the recital by the pupils of Mrs. Nellie L. Brickett. The rooms were filled with parents and friends who had the pleasure of listening to the following program. Piano Trio—Chorus of the Hussars, Mildred Besserman, Mariel Park, Sylvia Swan. The Storm, Mona Martyn. Impromptu Mazurka, Evangeline Atherton. Schubert's Romance, Mildred Parkman. Olney Hymns, Vera Holt. The Blacksmith's Song, Lena Dukes. Gondolieri, Mildred Haggood. Alpine Glow, Sylvia Swan. Song of the Sky Lark, Mariel Park. Minuet, Natalie Barker. La Cascade de Roses, Mona Martyn. Flower Song, Blanche Brown. Rustle of Spring, Mildred Parkman. La Zingara, Alice Kimball. Vale Caprice, Mildred Besserman. Song of the Bathers, Sylvia Swan. Goodbye, My Highland Lass, Odessa Lang. Mountain Stream, Mildred Haggood. Noel Enfantin, Mariel Park, Evangeline Atherton, Vera Holt, Alice Kimball. All at the pupils showed remarkable improvement and did credit to themselves and their teacher. Many compliments were expressed as the guests said goodnight to the hostess and Mrs. Brickett.

OFFICER IN FIGHT, DEPUTY L. L. NILES

Gets the Better of Assailant in Hard Contest.

Was Serving an Attachment on Walter Staples.

An assault upon Officer Niles was the sequel to the case against Walter Staples, who a year ago was fined for selling booze in his barber shop in Virginia. The assault occurred Saturday in Ridgelyville. At the time Staples was fined he mortgaged his shop and furniture to E. A. Amburg for the necessary sum to pay the fine. As the claim had not been paid after the lapse of a year, Amburg got out an attachment, and Officer Niles went to Staples' shop in Ridgelyville and took the goods. He had removed the furniture and when he took some tools, as he was directed to do by Amburg, Staples objected and pitted upon the officer, and in the squabble the officer was thrown down. He succeeded in recovering himself and got the better of Staples. Upon being threatened with handcuffs if he did not keep still, and promise better fashions, Staples agreed to be peaceable. The officer then finished removing the stuff. For a few minutes the store looked as though "rough house" was the order of the day. Staples is a good sized fellow, and the officer is a small man, but the man with the law on his side always has the advantage, and then Officer Niles is a man of good fighting qualities. He made no complaint against Staples.

POMONA ORANGE FIELD DAY.

The eighth annual excursion of New Century Pomona Grange this year takes the form of a field day, and is announced for August 5th at the Androscoggin Valley fair grounds, Canton. The program includes a game of base ball, married Patrons vs single Patrons, in the forenoon and an address by State Master C. B. Stetson in the afternoon. Basket picnic dinner is announced, with hot coffee furnished on the grounds. Those who attend will bring their own drinking cup. Special rates have been secured from the M. C. R. R., and all trains will stop at the park. All friends of the Grange are invited. For order Committee of Arrangements.

ATHLETIC FIELD.

Last year a long stride was made toward securing an Athletic Field for Gould's Academy. The land was purchased, partially fenced and considerable money spent in clearing and grading. In addition to a generous amount of labor, contributed by the young men of the school, it will be necessary, however, to spend some $200 or $300 more before the field can be utilized for athletic purposes. Labor will be equally as valuable as money, and some have already signified their intention of making contributions of this kind. Any who wish to contribute either in labor or money are requested to address the Principal of the school. The fund now stands as follows: Previously acknowledged, $1,169. L. L. Mason, Portland, 10. Seth Walker, Bethel, 10. Mrs. O. M. Mason, Bethel, 10. Total, $1,199.

LOCAL HISTORY.

Rev. Chas. Frost, Bethel West Parish Congregational Church.

Incidental Memorandum—By Leonard B. Chapman. Number 15.

THE FROST NAME.
The name of Frost has been in Maine more than two centuries. Individual acts of possessors and appearances of residences have served as subjects for the poet, the prose writer and the artist's pencil.

Charles Frost of Kittery attempted by a provision inserted in his will to keep his home farm, comprising six hundred acres of land together and thus to continue the title from father to eldest son of the name from generation to generation till the end of time. His will was probated January 5, 1724, and the inventory shows an estate of 10,127 pounds.

James Frost of Berwick names his children in his will as does Charles, which was probated Sept. 20, 1745, the inventory showing an estate of land and mills amounting to 3,048 pounds, but it cannot be learned that these two persons were in anyway related. From the latter Rev. Charles Frost and all others possessing the name in Bethel and Newry are descended. James names nine children—six sons and three daughters in his will, arranged in the following order:

- James Jr., William, Nathaniel, John, Stephen, Jeremiah; daughters, Mrs. Mary Gerrish, Irene and Margaret.
- James Sr., married Feb. 15, 1707. Their first four children's names are recorded upon the town books, the others are taken from the church records as follows:
1. James Jr., born Nov. 5, 1707.
2. William, born March 10, 1709, died March 14, same year.
3. William, born Feb. 15, 1710. Descendants went to Bethel.
4. Nathaniel, born Aug. 14, 1713.
5. John, baptized, Oct. 25, 1715.
6. Stephen, baptized April 12, 1719.
7. Mary, baptized Oct. 8, 1721.
8. Mary, again baptized Sept. 20, 1723.
9. Jeremiah, baptized Dec. 24, 1725.
10. Jane, baptized May 19, 1728.
11. Margaret, baptized July 12, 1730.

William Frost, son of James Sr. born Feb. 15, 1710, and wife named Love "owned covenant" and joined the church at Blackberry Hill, Berwick, where the following named children were baptized and names recorded:

1. William Jr., May 20, 1733.
2. Elizabeth, Sept. 10, 1734.
3. Moses, March 27, 1737. Descendants went to Bethel.
4. James 3rd, March 6, 1739. Settled in Falmouth, Me. Descendants went to Limington.
5. Love, April 5, 1741.
6. Thomas, born July 17, 1744. His son Moses, who was father to Rev. Charles Frost, settled in Gorham, Me.
7. Elliot, May 3, 1747.
8. Isaac, July 14, 1751.
9. Abraham, Oct. 7, 1753.

Moses Frost, born March 27, 1737, son of William, remained in Berwick, where he and his wife had several children born to them; Moses Jr., Dominicus, Aaron, Thomas, Nathaniel and Lydia, settling in Bethel and Newry where they had large families. Moses Frost, born at Berwick, June 3, 1765, son of Thomas, who was born July 17, 1744, married April 15, 1789, Sarah, daughter of Humphrey and Elizabeth McKenney of Limington, she born March 10, 1766, he making her acquaintance probably while visiting his relatives who resided there. He settled upon a farm lot about a mile westerly of West Gorham, Me., being induced to do so undoubtedly because his uncle Nathaniel Frost was located in the town who purchased land in 1737 and whose residence is now to be seen, standing a mile or so northerly of Gorham Corner; his descendants are numerous and widely scattered. Children of Moses and Sarah (McKenney) Frost, born in Gorham, Me. 1. Dorcas, born March 2, 1791. Intention of marriage recorded in Bethel, Feb. 3, 1829, with Nahum Patterson; there her death Oct. 15, 1832; there the death of a child March 22, 1833.

THE SELECTMEN HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH THE CITIZEN REPORT.

Two weeks ago the Citizen printed an item concerning the milk inspector proposition. The Times reprinted it and made some comments that lead one to suppose that the editor of that sheet is disgruntled at the selectmen, and also that the editor is under the impression that the Citizen was favored with news that was withheld from the Times. The facts are that the Citizen did not get the item from the selectmen or anyone of them, and none of them knew it was to appear. That the Citizen found out the relation of the case for a delay in appointing a milk inspector and gave the news to the public need not arouse the ire of friend Barker. The Citizen will get there with the important news and efforts to discredit it afterwards will not avail.

The Reason.
"What gives that funny man across the street, so strange a gait?"
"He takes those crooked steps because he took his whiskey straight!"

THE NEW DORMITORY.

When in the early days of September we listen to the first call of the bell from the bell of Old Gould's, and realize that it is heralding the new academic year, time's pendulum goes backward swinging, whenever we hear that old bell ringing.

Thousands of the old pupils of Gould's Academy, all over this land, associate the first crimson and gold of autumn with the elm shaded streets and flaming hill sides of Bethel, and smile and sigh as they recall the brightness of days when life was young.

This autumn of 1909 will open a new era in the history of this old academic town already dignified by educational associations.

Facing the Academy ground, shaded by trees which are memorials of those who lived for the good of others, a stately building has approached completion during these summer months, the much needed students' dormitory, without which the future of Gould's Academy seemed hopelessly limited.

This dignified building is like an English "Hall" in design and facing south will have the benefit of sun, while the western and northern windows take in the lovely Androscoggin valley with the blue mountains beyond.

The Academy no longer stands in the pathetic isolation of one bearing an unshared burden of humanity. The Dormitory has risen as an inspiration to the Old Gould's.

Year after year, anxious parents and students have beseeched the homes of Bethel that shelter and protection might be given the students coming away from their homes to be educated. Teachers and friends of the school have anxiously and patiently made room for the new-comers, but there was little inducement to attract students to a town unprepared to receive them.

This situation was seen by the one man whose grateful memory rivals his ability and whose generosity has already bestowed upon this village the greatest of gifts in its Principal's home.

Mr. Holden, Gould's Academy's greatest benefactor, gives this beautiful Dormitory to the citizens of Bethel and surrounding towns for the benefit of their children and grandchildren.

By this addition to the working power of Gould's Academy the school will now be able to compete with its hitherto more fortunate rivals.

No other academy has a more beautiful village as a background for its students' lives, or where higher standards of cultivated men and women are maintained, or where public spirit rises to higher levels.

Mr. Holden presents this building to the Trustees of Gould's Academy. It will be completely furnished with steam heating apparatus and range, painted and papered, with ample storerooms and every appointment necessary for a practical and helpful establishment.

Mr. Holden will come on from Portland to be present at its dedication and the citizens of Bethel will naturally desire to arrange a fitting recognition of this unexpected tribute to Bethel.

Having this noble gift bestowed upon us we cannot fail to see that something is incumbent upon all of us who are in a broad sense equal recipients of whatever adds to the best future of our village.

The question now rises how shall the new dormitory be furnished, with simple, strong furniture, that will enable the Principal of Gould's Academy to receive this September, the students ready making application for room?

As a community, we can hardly feel able to welcome Mr. Holden as our honored benefactor and yet show our willingness to cooperate with him in what promises the only enlarged future for our Academy. Indifference would not be conducive to our self-respect, or peace of mind.

When the reconstructed Academy stood finished as a building, but with bare walls appealing for help, this village gave fourteen hundred dollars in response to one call.

We have just as public spirited men and women in Bethel today. Fathers and mothers are just as anxious that their children should have the benefit of an enlarged academic life with most come with this great addition to the working power of the school.

Citizens are already offering voluntary contributions to help furnish the Dormitory, and the call is for every man, woman and child to stand ready to do his share in opening the New Dormitory to the students of the Academy this September, not only a month away.

At the coming dedication of this noble building, let the throng of people who will wish to be present, feel the thrill that comes when by sharing in a public spirited effort, we realize a successful result.

Citizens of Bethel, feel the pride of service and give generously, gladly, when asked to open the new closed doors of Holden Hall.

USEFUL WIRE REEL FOR FARM.

Instructions Given for Making Fence Stand That Will Be Found Very Convenient.

Illustrations and directions for making a reel for fence wire are given below. The reel stand consists of one piece, a, which is a 2x4 5 feet long, and a second piece, b, which is a 2x4 3 feet long. B is spiked near one end of a. Two feet from where b is spiked to a, a bolt 3/8x8 inches is driven through a. The reel is formed of two 2x4's 3 feet long, half lapped in the middle to form a cross. Nine inches from the ends of each prong of this cross is set a peg of hardwood 1x16 inches.

This reel is set on the bolt of the reel stand with a small block of wood under it, so that it will revolve easily. Another cross is made by nailing together two pieces of 2x4-inch strips, with an oblong hole 9 inches from the end of each prong. This is slipped down over the ends of the pegs to keep the wire from flying off.

TIMELY NOTES OF THE FARM.

If you wish to increase the fertility of the farm, raise more clover, feed the hay to the stock and return the manure to the soil.

A good orchard fertilizer: Four hundred pounds of ground bone and 300 pounds of muriate of potash to the acre.

Don't plow an orchard when the trees are in blossom; do it before or after. Some growers say that working the soil at blossom time causes the bloom to drop prematurely.

If the orchard needs draining, better attend to the matter at once. Wet feet do not make fine fruit.

Hobbits and orioles should be protected from human vandals. Every one of them is worth $1.50 apiece, even if they do get a few cherries. Why, their early morning songs of good cheer is worth more money. The oriole is one of the busiest insect destroyers in the list.

Have you bees in his orchard? If not, why not?

Pollination is a positive necessity if we want fruit and the bee is the best agent there is to effect it. Then you get besides the honey, making a double crop of fruit and honey. If you sow some alfalfa near by you can have a rich harvest of the honey. Be careful about spraying in blooming time on account of the bees.

Care in Selecting Alfalfa Seed.

If a good stand is obtained an alfalfa field continues to produce good crops for years in succession. It is certainly worth while, then, to be especially careful with regard to this most important factor in securing maximum yields—the seed. This is emphasized by the fact that the majority of alfalfa failures are known to be due to weeds, the seeds of which are frequently sown with the alfalfa.

The most common adulterations of alfalfa seed are bur clover, yellow trefoil and sweet clover. Crab grass, rib grass and green and yellow foxtail are also found. But the worst weed seed found in alfalfa seed is fodder.

Alfalfa seed resembles those of red clover in size, but differ in not being so uniform in shape. The color should be light olive green or greenish yellow. Darkened, discolored and shriveled seed should be discarded, as its germinating power is low. Plump, well matured seed produce more plants and stronger plants than do the small and immature.

Results from Soil Tests.

The restoration of worn-out and light soils by the rotation of crops and the use of legumes has been proven practicable in tests made by the soils department of the University of Wisconsin station. Marsh soils have been investigated at four points in the state and methods of management which will assure profitable returns have been tried.

The aid in making drainage plans has been extended to almost 200 land owners and 17 drainage districts. At the same time soil examinations were made and aid was given in about 400 cases. Some soil survey work has been done with such excellent results that the need of a state survey is for immediate attention.

The Best Harness Dressing.

Three ounces of turpentine and two ounces of refined kerosene are dissolved together over a slow fire. Then add one ounce of ivory black and a dram of indigo, well pulverized and mixed together. When the wax and turpentine are dissolved, add the ivory black and indigo, and stir till cold. Apply very thin. Wash afterward, and you will have a beautiful polish. This blacking keeps the leather soft. It is excellent for buggy-tops and harness. In England a large amount of harness is made by the machine of harness dressing.

Buy a Barrel of This Flour

You will find it real economy to buy the famous William Tell Flour by the barrel.

You will not only protect yourself against advances in price due to "wheat corner" and crop conditions, but you will always be sure of the finest grained bread—the whitest bread—the lightest biscuit—the most delicious pastry that can be baked.

Note how much cleaner William Tell is than other flours—due to the costly equipment of the Ansted & Burk Company's mills for protecting the grain and flour in grinding.

Ask your dealer and insist on having—

ROMAN NOSE IN THE HORSE.

Generally Indicates Individuality and is Often Accompanied with Much Intelligence.

A Roman nose in a horse, like the corresponding aquiline shape in a man, generally indicates strong individuality, often accompanied with great intelligence.

A straight facial line is quite as often found with a high degree of intelligence, but a dish-faced horse is rarely anything but a sonnet in character or a fool. I have seen a few exceptions to this rule, but they only prove it.

A fine muzzle usually denotes a high nervous organization, while a coarse and large muzzle, with small and non-expansive nostrils and pendulous lower lip, means stupidity.

A sensitive and trumpet-shaped nostril means courage and intelligence, even when, as it does sometimes, it also means heaviness.

A broad and full forehead and length from eye to ear are good general indications of intelligence, but the eye and ear are the speaking features of a horse's face.

The ear is more intelligible even than the eye, and a person accustomed to the horse can tell all that he thinks or means. When a horse lays his ears flat back on his neck, he most assuredly is meditating mischief, and the bystander should beware of his heels or teeth. In play the ears will be laid back, but not so decidedly nor so long. A quick change in their position, and more particularly the expression of the eye at the time, will distinguish between playfulness and vice. All experts agree that the ear of the horse is one of the most beautiful parts about him, and by this is the temper more surely indicated than by his motion.

HINTS FROM THE HIRED MAN

Good Hustling Farm Hand Tells of Qualities Necessary to Make Himself Valuable.

An Illinois man taught me how to raise and cure sorghum. He puts in two bushels of seed to the acre with a wheat drill. This gives a uniform growth; the plant is small, and the yield is about as heavy as from a thinner seeding.

I never worked on a farm until I was 18 years old, I had always worked in a beef-packing plant in a large city, and I suppose that is where I formed a habit of hustling, which has stuck to me ever since. When I commenced farming I used to listen for the sound of the whistle at dinner time, but I soon learned that in the busy seasons a man cannot put in too many hours. Some of the boys in my neighborhood told me it was a mistake to do any more than I really had to to hold my job, but I take notice that I am now getting $25 per month and my board and washing all the year round, while the other fellows get about $18 and are laid off during the winter.

Farm help is becoming scarcer every year, but I think the farmer himself is largely to blame. Too many farmers regard the hired man as a beast of burden, and give him about the same treatment that they do their mules. How can a farmer expect to keep a good man if he only pays him $20 per month, makes him sleep in a hot loft in the house or in the hay-mow, expects him to work 15 hours a day seven days in the week during the summer and fires him in the fall? I notice that the farmer who keeps his hired man all the year round and treats him with the consideration that is due him generally makes money and seldom kicks about the scarcity of labor.

The farmer who leads and does not drive is the man who gets the most work and the best service out of the hired man.

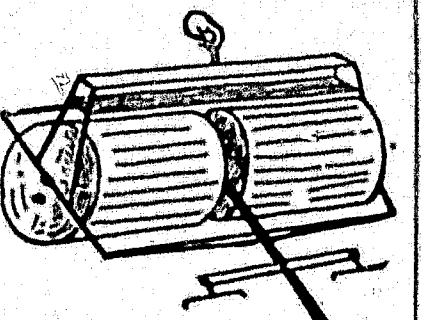

The hired man who does not keep himself neat and clean has no right to expect to sit at the family table.

Soap is cheap and the well is usually handy.

HOW TO MAKE CHEAP ROLLER

A Good One Can Be Made Economically from Cast-Off Farm Machinery.

The frame of the roller is made of 4x4-inch scantling. The brace extending from frame to tongue is made from an old wagon tire. The drums are 3 1/2 feet in length and are made of old mower wheels on which are bolted 2x4 scantlings. An iron shaft extends the entire length of the two drums and is made stationary in the frame. The drums revolve on the shaft. The box above the drums and in front of the seat is for extra weight when the weight of the roller is not sufficient to crush the clods.

The seat is an old mower seat bolted on rear end of the tongue so the weight of the driver will balance tongue and take weight off the neck of team.—John S. Pierce.

FOR BETTER DIRT ROADS.

With a sandy soil and a subsoil of clay or clay and gravel plow deep so as to raise and mix the clay with the surface soil and sand.

The combination forms a sand-clay road at a trifling expense.

If the road be entirely of sand a mistake will be made if it is plowed, unless clay can be added.

Such plowing would merely deepen the sand, and at the same time break up the small amount of hard surface material which may be formed.

If the subsoil is clay and the surface scant in sand or gravel, plowing should not be resorted to, as it would result in a clay surface rather than one of sand or gravel.

A road foreman must know not only what to plow and what not to plow, but how and when to plow.

If the road is of the kind which according to the above instructions should be plowed over its whole width the best method is to run the first furrow in the middle of the road and work out the sides, thus forming a crown.

Results from such plowing are the greatest in the spring or early summer.

In ditches a plow can be used to good advantage, but should be followed by a scraper or grader.

To make wide, deep ditches nothing better than the ordinary drag scraper has yet been devised.

For hauls under 100 feet or in making "alls" it is especially serviceable.

Soil Moisture.

Soil moisture determinations were made on plowed and unplowed soil at the Delaware experiment station. On an average for the season the unplowed land contained 3.7 per cent. less moisture than the plowed soil. During the autumn and winter months the subsoil of the plowed portion contained on an average 3.7 per cent. more moisture than the unplowed portion.

QUALITY NEGLECTED FOR SIZE.

In Breeding the Farmer Has Been Sacrificed to the Latter by Many Farmers and Hog Raisers.

Of late years it has become quite a fad with farmers and hog raisers to let our hances run away with us and breed our stock of almost every kind more for quality than for size. It is a matter of fact that when we ship live stock to market they sell together by weight, and as a matter of course the animal or carcass that weighs the greatest number of pounds will command the most money, and I think the habit of breeding more for quality than for size lies in the fault of the judges in making their decisions in the show rings, as I think they award more prizes to the little, fine-spun animals, especially sows, than they do the larger type, declares Mr. Hart, in Kimball's Dairyman. If they would reverse their decisions it would let us all know where we are, and we would breed more for size than for quality.

When we make discrimination in favor of quality against size in selecting our breeding stock, we also discriminate against prolificacy, as my experience has been the finer the quality the less prolific, and the weaker the constitution of the animal. Also a great deal of this defect is brought about by too close in-breeding; so therefore, I contend that if we would select our breeding stock of both sexes of larger type with good, strong, heavy bone, with sufficient frame to build on and capable of carrying flesh, our hogs would be of stronger constitution and more prolific. I am not opposed to breeding and raising pure bred stock of any kind. I want them with pedigree, but I want them large enough and with a strong constitution to back the pedigree up.

It matters not how large or how fancy a hog is bred—ultimately the pork barrel is the end of it, as it is a matter of natural consequence, all things being equal, as they sell by weight in all the markets, that the hog that weighs the greatest number of pounds will bring the most money. Therefore, brother breeders, let us breed more for size rather than let our fancies for quality overrule our better judgment, and not raise the little fancy ones that are only fit to look at.

TO RISE IN BUSINESS LIFE.

Some Few Essentials Must Be kept In Mind, and One of These Is Advertising.

A man may have several carloads of ability. He may have brains and ideas and other desirable things. But all the ideas over "Ideated" will not avail to raise a man who neglects that all important item of advertising. You simply must get attention. Of course, you can get attention by firing off a revolver during office hours, or you can do it by wearing loud clothes and proclaiming your kinship in the sporting fraternity. But most men who have risen from the ranks have carefully neglected to use methods of this kind.

Every office man must act as his own salesman. He must first prepare himself by increasing his efficiency. He must be able to do the work for which he is hired. Not only should he do that for which he is hired, but he must do that work better than it ever was done before. When that item has been attended to it is then time to look about for more work.

The wise employee will keep his eye on the job ahead, or better still, will look at a job which does not exist, but which should exist for the good of the business. The next step is to think out a selling talk that will get the attention, arouse the interest, create a desire, and bring about in the mind of the employer a desire to do what the live employee desires him to do.—The Bookkeeper.

WAS NOT STRENUOUS WORKER

Youth Forced to Confess That His Duties Were Not What Might Be Called Arduous.

The son of a rich father quit college a few weeks ago—he was in love, he explained, and couldn't keep his mind on his books. He wanted to go to work and make a place for himself in the world. So his father got him on the payroll of a bank in which he was a director. The young man's sweetheart—kept writing him how proud she was over his independence and asking just what position he held so she could tell the other girls. The young man side-stepped the question as to his prominence in the bank's organization, until, finally, his intended wrote him a peppy letter, saying that if he didn't give her the information by return mail she would be real angry. Then, after much thinking, the youth wrote her this:

"I've wanted all along to tell you about my position and would have done so before had I known myself. About all I do here is to raise a window when I come in the morning and put it down when I leave in the afternoon. The rest of the time I read or watch the others work. I don't know just what you could call my job. Better tell the girls that I'm the draught clerk. That will come the nearest to describing my duties."

Good Luck. "I see you have been three months trying to get a graft jury." "Yes," replied the San Franciscan, proudly, "were one of the few communities lacking in the stupid and unintelligent men needed for the purpose."

Tenacious Philosophy. "You seem to have a lot of confidence in mankind," said the victim in the chair. "Not necessarily," rejoined the knight of the whicker knife, "merely take men at their face value."

NORWAY AND SOUTH PARIS

NORWAY.

A. A. Laferriere was in Minot and Mechanic Falls on business last week. Shoe business is on the boom again and everybody is busy. Over two hundred dozen besides samples are being put through each day.

Repairs have been made on the Savings Bank's building roof and the staging blocking the sidewalk, removed.

Beck garage on Main street is open for business and is a well built modern machine shop. Business is fine as many new cars are daily overhauled and repaired.

Harry Linn's Trained Bog and Vandeville show was in town from Monday until Thursday. They set up near Bennett's carriage shop on Whitman St. and did capacity business each evening. Mr. Linn has this year, a clean outfit and gives excellent performances, which include moving pictures, illustrated songs, character sketches and other vaudeville numbers besides the troupe of educated dogs. The whole outfit travels overland in a gasoline car run by a 30 horse power motor and they also generate their own electric light system for illumination after setting up. While on the road the train proves self advertising because of the string of wagons all drawn by the engine resembling a winter electric railroad car. This show is clean and free from the usual run of tent show slang, thus receives generous patronage, which it justly deserves. They went from here to Oxford.

Despite the unsettled weather conditions last Saturday, Radcliffe and Mechanic Falls met on the fair grounds in their first game of a championship series to settle the dispute concerning prestige in western Maine. A large crowd followed the Mechanic Falls team on the regular afternoon train but had a special to carry them home. This delegation, together with the Norway and Paris crowd made things lively during the contest. At the end of nine innings the score was 1 to 1, but after two of the Mechanic Falls players were out in the first half of the tenth, umpire Clark was forced to call the game on account of rain, thus no definite conclusions were reached. The second game will be played at Mechanic Falls next Saturday afternoon and arrangements are being made for a special train to leave here about 1:30 p. m., returning after the battle. Norway will send down a strong team and a large crowd of rooters. Surely there will be something doing.

Francis A. Chandler is visiting his brother and grandparents at Bethel.

Rev. B. S. Riddout preached his last sermon in the Congregational church, last Sunday until September. The pulpit will be supplied during the next few weeks then a short vacation follows. Mid-week meetings continue as usual.

More room is being added to the fair grounds by setting the fence which forms the northern boundary, several feet back down the slope towards the woods. Changes are also being made in the interior of the Society's building, which will more room in the officers' quarters.

Mr. Geo. K. Robinson, manager of the local telephone exchange, and family, left town Monday for their annual vacation. They expect to be away two weeks.

It is reported that Arthur Littlefield, machinist in the B. P. Spencey & Co.'s machine room, has resigned to accept a similar position elsewhere. Mr. Littlefield is a young man of excellent character and possesses technical mechanical ability. Both Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield have been identified with the Baptist Society and will be greatly missed in church and social work here in town.

NORTH NORWAY.

Col. A. M. Edwards, born in this town in 1836, died in Detroit, Mich. July 12th. He leaves many relatives in Oxford County. At an early age he entered the University of Ann Arbor but the call to arms when the Civil war broke out appealed to him and he enlisted in the 1st Mich. and later in the 24th Mich. He suffered several wounds in a southern prison for ten months. Toward the close of war his regiment was on duty at Niagara Falls, at the time of Lincoln's funeral and Col. Edwards was in charge of the military escort on that occasion. A brave soldier, a kind husband and father has gone. Peace to his memory.

Teddy Hunt, 10 years old and son of Mr. Hunt, caught 66 herring in the Fishing Pond, Thursday.

Anna Needham is repairing the Noble Corner schoolhouse.

Poor weather for haying. N. Norway band had a dance and concert at Cole's opera house Saturday evening.

Twitcheil's fruit team comes this way every week, also two meat carts and two fish carts from the village. Brooks, Russell and Rich.

SOUTH PARIS.

The first burdy-gurdy of the season appeared on the streets Monday. Its music was greatly appreciated by the children at least.

Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Evans are visiting Mrs. Evans' sister, Mrs. Etta Lane at Upton and their son Fred, at Magnalloway.

All services will be suspended at the Universalist church during the month of August. There will be no preaching service or Sunday School at the Congregational church but the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening and the Wednesday evening prayer meeting will be held as usual through the month at this church. The Methodist and Baptist churches will unite their services during the last four Sundays of the month. The services will be held at the Methodist church the second and third Sundays and at the Baptist church the fourth and fifth Sundays.

A very pleasant time was enjoyed by forty or more ladies in the Briggs' grove on Pine street Tuesday afternoon of last week. The affair was arranged in honor of Mrs. George Chase-Swift of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Lillie Hall-Ripley, Pawhuska, Okla., both former natives of this village and who are visiting relatives and friends here. The company was made up of their former schoolmates and friends. The committee in charge of the arrangements was Mrs. Agnes Morton, Mrs. Cora Briggs, Mrs. Clara Whittle, Misses Hattie Barnell and Carrie Hall. The afternoon was spent in a very pleasant and informal social manner, chairs, hammocks and everything needed to make the guests comfortable having been provided. Graphophone music furnished by Mrs. Nellie Andrews also added to the pleasure. At six o'clock every one was ready to do justice to the fine supper that had been provided and with the pleasant surroundings this closing part of the program made a very fitting climax to the events of the afternoon.

Mr. Fagg, the barber, who worked for H. Walter Starbird a part of the time last fall, is again employed in the same shop.

Repairs are being made on the show windows in J. P. Plummer's store.

Charles M. Titcomb, Harry A. Titcomb and Louis W. Clark have been spending the past week camping in East Stoneham. They report a fine time.

Oscar P. Bowker has made extensive repairs on his house which he recently purchased on Nichol street. A piazza has been added, a large plate glass window put in and considerable work done on the interior of the building. W. L. Blood had charge of the work.

Mr. and Mrs. David B. Coles of Sumner and Mrs. Susan Bowker of Biddeford, visited relatives in town Saturday and Sunday.

A special town meeting will be held in New Hall next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Two of the articles to be acted on are in relation to school matters and the other article is to see if the town will raise two hundred dollars to be expended at the time of the Hamlin Centenary on Paris Hill, August 27th.

January 4th, 5th and 6th are the dates set for the poultry show of the Western Maine Poultry Association to be held in New Hall next winter. The association has been incorporated and will offer premiums on nearly all kinds of poultry.

Linn's dog show which exhibited on the Blake lot near the depot the last three days of last week was very well patronized and certainly they deserved to be. For an admission of fifteen cents they gave an entertainment which was superior to many twenty five cent shows that have been here. They are by far the most up-to-date tent show that ever struck this town. They travel overland, the motive power being furnished by a fifty horse power car about the size of a Norway and Paris electric. Gasoline is the fuel used. Hatched to this car are the necessary baggage. There is a car under the car to provide electricity for the performances. It is an interesting sight to see the caravan making its way along the highway.

Their mode of travelling proves a great advertisement for them and after the first night the quality of the show assures them of good patronage the remainder of their stay in a town.

Huckleberries and raspberries are quite plenty.

Frank Noyes has purchased the grass on the Merriam place.

Eggs are 25 cents a dozen. Last year at this time they were 20 cents.

His Good Point. "Papa," says the little boy, "has the devil got a tail?" "None folks say so," answered the father.

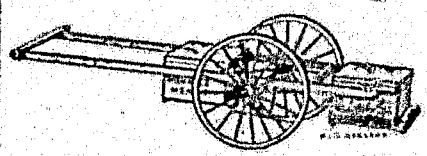

"Good! That must be nice!" "Next time you'll see!"

"Because he can tie it to his little boy's wagon and pull him around."

Goat Stock for Angora Crosses.

A few years ago Mexican does were used extensively as foundation stock for a flock of Angoras, using bucks of the latter breed. However wise the practice may have been at that time that method of building up a flock of fleece-bearing goats is now in vogue but slightly, if at all. The practice flourished best when the goat raisers knew very little of the larger prices they might have obtained for a better grade of mohair. They were content with prices ranging from 14 to 22 cents a pound. Manufacturers have required better hair than can be produced by grades and this has tended to reduce very greatly the number of crosses.

Kicking Horses.

To prevent a kicking horse from throwing up his heels, a hitch like that shown in the above illustration will prove efficacious.

IN AND OUT OF THE DAIRY.

The sticky substance in milk known as albumen can be rinsed off the milk pans with cold water, which should always be used first. Boiling water will cook it on.

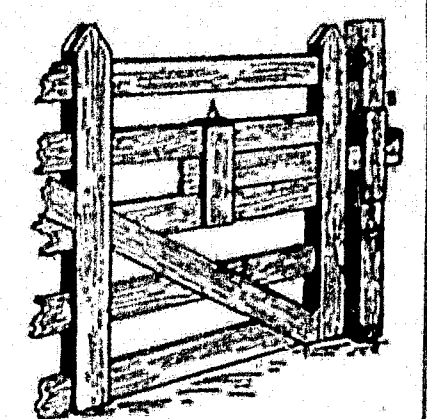

To make the best country butter one must not let the cream get too sour, nor skim sweet and put with the sour. Let it all ripen at once and the butter will be much better and keep better.

As a rule milk is unfit for use at least two weeks before calving time. However, some cow's milk seems to be good almost up to calving time. Milk is usually not saved for house use until the eighth or ninth milking afterward, although it has been known to be perfectly good after the fourth milking.

A woman in Illinois who makes fine butter writes that she skims the cream of two or three days' milk together, letting it all sour at one time, and churns as soon as it is sour. She makes pound rolls, and her butter always commands the highest price, her customers preferring it to creamery butter.

FARM GATE FASTENER.

The latch for the gate which is shown in the accompanying illustration is made of a piece of board 2 or 2½ feet long which will fit into the boards are nailed on either side of the gate, between which the latch is worked. A notch is cut in the fence space easily, as indicated. Short post and notches are also cut in the latch for the boards A and B to fit over. Stock cannot rub this latch and open the gate.—Harry Pittman.

Farmers Should Raise Feeders. When farmers buy feeder cattle and fatten them the chances of profit are usually smaller than in the case of those who raise their feeders. This applies to sheep and hogs, too. Students of the live-stock industry are coming to believe that the most successful meatmakers in the future will be farmers who raise their own feeders. There are times when a shrewd man can go on the market and buy feeder cattle or sheep at prices which will almost surely make him money. But comparatively few men are good buyers.

Milk Goat Industry. The milk goat industry is occupying considerable attention in the East. Seventy-seven goats have been accepted for registration by the American Milk Goat Association during the year. One hundred and eighty-seven are now on record. Any goat yielding one quart or more of milk a day is eligible.

Grades of Cream. The Kansas Agricultural college grades cream as follows: First grade cream, 22 or more per cent of butter fat; second grade, 20 per cent and less than 22; third grade, having less than 20 per cent butter fat. Creameries like to get high testing cream, say 23 and above. They make more butter from this, as the overrun is greater.

COOL CREAM BEFORE SOURS.

Greatest Objection to Hand Separator is That Fluid Sours Too Soon Before Delivery.

One of the greatest objections urged against the hand separator is that the cream gets too sour before being delivered to the creamery. This condition is brought about by not properly cooling the cream and keeping it cool while on the farm. With this soured cream in all stages and conditions, it is an impossibility to get it properly so as to make first-class article of butter.

Dairy authorities continually urge cooling of cream as soon as separated, and not to mix fresh, warm cream with cold cream. The advice is good and must be followed to produce a choice grade of cream, either for the creamery or the private dairy. It is seems that very little is ever said about how this cooling should be done or the methods or utensils necessary for cooling cream on the farm. Many let their cream set and the best it can, oftentimes in the sun and dust in a room or cellar where many offensive odors abound. Cooling by contact with cold water is the only method that will rapidly cool the cream and preserve the cream from deterioration.

The submerged can for setting milk is largely in use before the days of the separator produced as good a grade of cream as it is possible to get in any way. This was brought about by the rapid cooling of the milk and cream in contact with cold water. For large dairies, where several gallons of cream is to be cooled, a better method could be adopted as the large water-bat and the submerged can holding 4½ gallons, held the water by a slit over the can, ventilated lid.

The newspapers are printing what are pretended to be pictures of the lad that has just been thrust upon the throne of Persia. He is less than ten years old if the pictures are any guide. The despatches say that he is unhappy in his new role, and longs to be in his mother's lap. The reports are to the effect that the dethronement of the former Shah and the accession of this boy is a move in the direction of constitutional government. The reports read to us like constitutional nonsense.

There are serious strikes in Nova Scotia, Pittsburgh and Lynn. Strikes are of peculiar origin and are sprung upon the public for no apparent reason, but as in every case that is because the public do not get the facts told them. There is a reason for everything. It may be good or bad. It is more than we wish to believe that large bodies of men go on a strike for the fun of it. They have real or fancied wrongs to be righted. Since the strike in the International mill at Rumford last fall, we have learned that it is hard for the public to ascertain the true causes for strikes from either party. There is but one real reasonable cause for a strike, and that is to preserve the dignity and rights common to all mankind. For that men are justified in fighting—for that they must fight.

Civilization pushes its way slowly across the Ottoman empire. The men who massacred thousands and thousands of men and women in their half racial, half religious frenzy in Asiatic Turkey are being pardoned and forgiven, and life moves on recreating the same conditions that have brought about the same kind of scenes in that land through out the ages past. A few have been punished; just enough to let the Moslems know that it is not a very risky thing to kill off a few heretics or infidels, as they call the Christians, applying that epithet to the men of their own race who have become Christians from Europe and America. How slowly civilization pushes its way across Turkey is more clearly seen in the fact that upwards of a hundred Turks have been executed for no other offense than belonging to the old regime. Yet the coming to power of the young Turks was hailed as a victory for Christianity. About ten were executed for participating in the massacre of thousands, and a hundred or more executed for being on the losing side in a political game. Civilization indeed pushes slowly over the Ottoman empire.

About 50 per cent. of the books that are taken from the public libraries in Bethel. Hence it follows that the education of the masses is obtained through story reading. It is therefore of great concern that we see the tendency on the part of publishers, guided by the commercial instinct, to follow what they call the popular demand in the style of stories they print. Whether they know what the popular demand is may be doubted, for people read what is printed, and often, we have no doubt they would be well pleased if that were something different, but the important fact is this: The people can be made to read what the publishers print, and the function of the press is, we might say, to educate. The education that our fathers got from the famous stories of the last century was, on the whole, good. We have no such stories now, and from our observation of current fiction such a story as "Charles Darnley" or "Washington Irving" would offer to publishers would not find a market now. One of the latest publishers of stories in this country advertises the same old-fashioned tales that our fathers wanted. Stories that carry no moral or educational features are the so-called popular ones of today. As early as this the effects are seen on the rising generation. The hundred and one things that our fathers learned from those and other writers of fiction are missed in the manner and conduct of the young men of today. It would not be so bad if they were all taught these things elsewhere, but only a few are. If the current fiction was written with the idea of benefiting the people, who might read, as was the purpose of Scott, Thackeray, Irving, Dickens, Cooper and many others, we should not see the present crudeness in manner that characterizes the young men of the times. That there is any less ability among the writers we do not believe. They are following the suggestions of the publishers in eliminating the educational features, obliged to for business reasons. Genius should not be obliged to wait upon profit.

OUR POLLUTED RIVERS. IS THERE A REMEDY?

The exploiting of natural resources for commercial gain is a natural accompaniment of the system of business that prevails throughout the world, and will continue as long as the system lasts. The only way that such unwholesome exploitations can be lessened is by the enactment of laws curtailing and wherever necessary denying the privileges now given to manufacturing companies. We have now in mind the pollution of the great rivers and streams that has taken place as a result of the waste chemicals that are turned into the rivers that furnish the motive power for operating the mills and factories. We have had in mind for several years the great wrong that was being done, but knowing that the great purpose of the present generation of men is to get rich even though nature be robbed of her purity and beauty, we have thought it inexpedient to lift up a voice in protest. The restraint has been the greater because we had no knowledge of methods that might make such pollution of the waters unnecessary in the conduct of the enterprises.

We are now emboldened to speak because of the recent lectures given by Prof. F. C. Robinson of Bowdoin College in which he calls attention to the great harm that has been done by the pollution of the waters of our rivers and lakes, and suggests that the refuse can be otherwise disposed of, and with a sort of Jesuitical diplomacy leaves the impression that the waste can be made profitable. It is true that he does not tell us just how it can be done but stimulates the "business instinct" of the owners of the businesses, that are now carried on at the expense of the purity of the natural waters of the State, by intimating that by-products of great worth can be made from the refuse that is now turned into the rivers as the cheapest way of getting rid of it. He speaks more pointedly of the waste from pulp making. We quote him as follows:

"There is a certain necessary amount of waste in all manufacturing, but there is no such magnitude of waste as in wood pulp making. For every ton of good wood pulp made at least a ton of waste results. We sometimes stand aghast at the wholesale destruction of our forests by the pulp mills, but how much more is our astonishment and indignation when we learn that full one-half of every cord of wood so used, or more than two billions of pounds each year in the United States is simply thrown away, and thrown away in such a manner as to carry a whole train of evils in its wake."

"It should be said to justice to the manufacturers that many attempts have been made to find a commercial use for the waste in wood pulp manufacture, but thus far they have met with little success. But it should be said to justice that those attempts have not had the force of absolute necessity behind them, so they ought to have. There is a good deal of difference between a voluntary 'research' in a laboratory, conducted perhaps as a bribe for an article to a journal or a graduating thesis, and an enterprise demanded for something to remove some uncertainty from business. When, at the time of the French revolution, the English blockade cut off the supply of soda to the French soap factories, it was not long before a person was discovered of genius that succeeded in securing some common salt. In the same way, I believe, could the great waste and substance be done away with if a peremptory demand for it was made."

We remember once of being with one of the natural kind of men—one who would rather own and have the use of a boat, gun, and fishing rod than a factory worth a million dollars. He stood on the bank of a stream whose waters were once teeming with fish, and along whose banks one could live and breathe wholesome air, and enjoy nature's beauty, but then polluted with the refuse of dozens of factories, as well as by the sewerage from a great city. The fish had been driven out or killed by the poison, and the air along the way was foul, and those who owned homes along its banks had been obliged to sell them or rent them to "strangers" and move away. This man stood looking at the wreck that had been made, and with all the indignation that ever fired the blood of Jonathan Edwards as he denounced the devil, this man said, "I wish it had pleased God to have placed an Indian in front of every white man that ever stepped foot on this continent, and to have given him power to have either killed him or sent him back to the land of civilization from which he came." Then we thought the man to be a crank, or stupid, but baring the vehemence of his utterance, and the seeming inappreciation of civilization, we have since been able to catch the spirit that inspired his indignation as he beheld the profanation of the once pure waters of the Blackstone river.

We believe that from one cause or another there will be a reformation that will yet prove that civilization and commercial enterprise can progress without leaving in its pathway polluted waters, impoverished soil, and diseased ruined human beings.

The advertisement of the Shaw Business College in another column should appeal to those in need of a business education. A school which allows its students to attend one month and guarantees full satisfaction before payment is required, must be worthy of patronage. Twenty-five years of successful service in preparing young people for business, coupled with the privilege of personally investigating its merits before payment is required, has gained the confidence of the public. The forty-eight page catalogue, giving full details of its work, is to be had for the asking.

BETHEL LOCALS.

The solos by Mrs. Edwin Gehring and Master O'Brien of Portland were highly appreciated at the Congregational church last Sunday morning.

The annual picnic of the Universalist Sunday School was held on Grover Hill Tuesday afternoon. Some fifty were present and a most enjoyable time was had.

Important business makes a meeting of the Columbian Club imperative. Will the members be so kind as to meet at the home of Mrs. Herrick on Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

The lawn supper at Mr. J. U. Parington's served by the Ladies' Club was a most enjoyable affair. Although the threatening clouds prevented the tables being placed upon the lawn, the broad piazza proved to be a most pleasant and social place for the serving of the supper and a goodly number were present to enjoy the supper and social.

Mr. J. V. Holt of Andover, Mass., and Mr. Will Gill enjoyed a successful fishing trip to Chase Hill, North Newry, Monday. They brought home with them a curiosity, it being a twig from an apple tree which had on it, perfect buds, blossoms and apples so well grown that they have begun to ripen. This was picked in Newry.

Rural carrier No. 1, J. S. Hutchins, of Bethel, president of the Maine Rural Carriers' Association, went to Auburn Tuesday, the 27th, upon invitation of the Fourth Class Postmasters, who held their annual meeting at the Woodman Hall to speak to them upon the "Duties of Postmasters to Rural Carriers." The meeting was well attended and an interesting program carried out.

The picnic of the M. E. Sunday School, which was held at Bryant Pond on Monday last, was very much enjoyed by the large number present. The day was an ideal one, the water calm and the picnic dinner all that could be asked. There being a goodly number of men in the party who were experts at rowing, several boats were hired and all given the privilege of several rides across the beautiful pond. The five primaries occupied their time playing about the shores and with stories, songs, conundrums, and treating, the time passed all too soon. We wish to hereby thank all the gentlemen who so kindly added much to the pleasure of the company by their generosity with the boating. All agreed that the day was highly enjoyed by all.

Many people with chronic throat and lung trouble have found comfort and relief in Foley's Honey and Tar as it cures stubborn coughs after other treatment has failed. L. M. Ruggles, Revere, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption, and I got no better until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It stopped the hemorrhages and pain in my lungs and they are now as sound as a bell." W. E. Besser, Bethel, and Chas. E. Fernald, Rumford Falls, Me.

AN INTERVIEW WITH RICH THE PHOTOGRAPHER.

The Citizen man called on Mr. Rich the photographer at his new studio Monday and asked him if he saw the speck in the Times signed by his competitor.

"I did see the letter he had printed there if that is what you call a speck," replied Mr. Rich.

"Well, showmen call the little speck that toles the people into the side show a 'speck,'" responded the Citizen man, "but what I want to know is this, does the article refer to you?"

"Why I suppose I am the bird that's hit, but I do not think it hardly worth while to reply. The fact is that my competitor is mad because I 'busted' his monopoly scheme. It apparently broke his heart."

A Westerner visiting New York was held up by a highwayman with the demand: "Give me your money, or I'll blow your brains out!"

"Blow away," said the Westerner. "You can live in New York without brains, but you can't without money."

"You don't seem to like Miss Gabbie, Mrs. Malaprop," remarked Mr. Browne. "Why is that?" "I detest her," replied Mrs. Malaprop, "because she's nothing but a scandal monger, and everybody that knows her will corroborate that statement."—Philadelphia

JACK WENT AFTER A PAIL OF WATER. AND JIM, NOT JILL, KEPT ON DOWN THE HILL.

From the brow of a hill about five miles out from Rangeley on the Lake shore road going towards Oquossoc, one night last week, a well known man, whom for short we will call Jack, stood peering down the road and in a tone of voice that indicated the keenest anxiety as well as inexpressible surprise, said to his companion, a farmer living on the hill, "I never knew Jim to do a thing like that before. He is a man who never takes anything and one of the most careful men in all things that lives in Rumford."

"Wal," responded the farmer, "it looks as if he'd shook ye all right."

"I think something must have happened to him," replied the puzzled Jack. "You don't suppose he could have been set upon by robbers do you?"

"Never's nothin' o' that kind happened in these parts. Never," was the reply. "We had better go along the road and see if we can see or hear anything of him," said Jack as he sat down the pail of water he had got from the farm house well to replenish the boiler of the auto. So down the road, thickly wooded on both sides and on a moonless night, Jack and the farmer, who showed some signs that he was fearful lest he himself was being tailed away for the nefarious purpose of robbery, started to find Jim and the auto that were supposed to be waiting at the hill top for the water Jack had gone after. As they proceeded it was not long before they saw the light of a lantern throwing its smoky rays along the road. "Hizz!" said Jack, "there comes some one." "Perhaps it's a gang of thieves," whispered the farmer. The two stood waiting for the approach of the man with the lantern. Let us leave them there while we pick up the other end of the true story.

About a mile from where Jack was introduced to the reader, Jim shut off power, and said "There is a little pool of water just over the bank, and it's better than running up a farmer to get water." Getting no response he looked back and around, and then called out "Jack." Getting no response Jim became alarmed, and thought that Jack had fallen out of the auto. He then lighted up a lantern and started back over the road peering on both sides, and keeping his ears wide open for sounds of groaning, for he fully expected to find the dead or mangled body of his companion, for he could not think of any possible explanation for Jack's disappearance other than that he had fallen out when the auto bumped it over a rough piece of ground. He had walked about half a mile when he was seen approaching by Jack and the farmer, both of whom had stopped, anticipating meeting the robbers who had despoiled Jim. About that time Jim both thought him that it would be well to call and so he shouted "Jack, Jack." As soon as Jack heard the voice, he danced for joy and shouted back—well come to think of it it would not look good in print, but the recognition relieved a tense situation. The farmer's testimony as to the affectionate meeting between these two men, is not at hand, but as he felt relieved and glad that he had not been lured into the woods and robbed, he probably did not remain to hear explanations. The Sightseer has only the story of the men themselves, whom he happened to see driving through the streets at about 11 o'clock the night in question.

It all happened in this way. Jim slowed down and said "Guess we need some water for the engine." Jack immediately jumped out and started for the farm house to get water. Jim not noticing that fact, thought of the pool a mile or so ahead, and started along. He did not notice that Jack was not in the auto until he stopped at the pool, as above related.

TO SERVE AS SURPRISE DISH.

Combination That Is Known as Italian Cheese Is Appetizing and Healthful.

Chop one pound of veal, 1½ pounds of calf's liver and half a pound of ham, all uncooked. Before chopping the liver cover it with boiling water for five minutes and dry it.

Add two tablespoons chopped parsley, one teaspoonful salt, one-half teaspoonful pepper, a dash of cayenne, half a teaspoonful of powdered sage and one small, grated onion. Mix well. Grease a plain mold well with butter, press the meat tightly into it, cover and steam or boil three hours. When the lid is removed you will find that the meat has shrunk, leaving an inch of space partly filled with liquid, carefully remove this liquid, put it into a saucepan on the fire, add to it one-fourth of a box of gelatin (which should have been covered with cold water and soaked half an hour), and sufficient water to fill the space and cover the meat.

Stir until the gelatin is dissolved, add salt and pepper to taste, pour back into mold, around the "cheese," and set away to cool. Turn out of the mold, when cold, and cut into thin slices. If properly made the meat should be encased in jelly.

KEEPS THE BOTTLES SWEET.

Simple Scheme of Housewife That Seems to Promise Much in the Line of Results.

To keep bottles perfectly sweet, especially those which contained milk, requires more than careful washing; they should also be well aired and drained.

One ingenious housekeeper has hit on a novel plan which has much simplified her bottle washing. She had a narrow board about three inches wide nailed to the outside of a kitchen window that had a sunny exposure.

At intervals along the length of the board were made screw holes just big enough to hold a child's drum stick, the bottom of which was likewise prepared for screwing. This could be done at home by anyone slightly skilled in tools, but a carpenter would charge little for it. The drum sticks were painted white, with a coat of enamel, so they could easily be kept clean.

When bottles were to be aired the sticks were screwed in the holes so they stood upright and a bottle, first cleaned in hot soda water, was turned upside down on each stick to drain, and sun.

A Good Cake.

Two cups of butter and two cups of sugar, creamed; six eggs, well beaten; one cup sirup, one cup good brandy; one nutmeg, one teaspoon cloves, three of cinnamon, two of soda, three of baking powder; grated rind of two lemons, juice of one; one tablespoon of vanilla, one of lemon extract; two pounds of best raisins, one of suet, two cups of walnuts, one of citron, one of orange peel, one of figs, one of dates, one of preserved strawberries (drain off the juice); five cups of flour sifted with the soda and baking powder. Prepare the fruit the day before making; cut the figs and dates fine with the scissors; also the raisins, and be sure there are no seeds left in them; shave the nuts with a sharp knife and the citron and orange peel as fine as possible. Dredge the fruit with flour and add just before putting in the oven, which must be hot at first and then moderate. Bake in two loaves, and ice.

IN MEMORIAM.

Anna Rebecca Wright, wife of Geo. A. Grover, was born on Jan. 11, 1857, and died July 16, 1909. Mrs. Grover was the daughter of Seth and Barbara Bean Wright and married Geo. A. Grover, May 1, 1881, remaining at home with her parents and caring for them. No children were born to her, but one brother was always with them up to his death, which occurred some two years ago. Mrs. Grover has been a busy worker in the Chapel Aid Society, ever ready to do all her health would permit. Ever an ardent lover of flowers, their cultivation was a source of much pleasure to her and even in her last weary days she took great delight in looking at the dainty pansy blossoms brought each morning by her devoted husband.

She was a great sufferer, but so patient and brave, always appreciating so fully the tender ministrations of relatives and friends, who strove to relieve her sufferings. Ever frail in body this gentle souled woman fought bravely and cheerfully for years against the wearing disease that at last proved fatal. Many are the friends who will truly mourn for her, who so quietly and unobtrusively went her way, leaving behind duties fulfilled, kind acts performed, and pleasant words spoken that will linger in memory as a monument that shall endure. Most sadly will she be missed where for so many years she had been home keeper, the one about whom all the tender thoughts of the Old Home seemed to cling. How oft she waited and watched for the coming of those who had gone out into the world and with what a sense of peace and rest they always thought of "Anna." Heavy indeed is the burden laid on the husband, to whom she was ever a faithful help-mate; tenderly and lovingly he watched over and helped to care for her in her long illness, and now the hardest of all life's lessons is his—this learning to live alone.

In the radiant dawn of morning,
God's angel called softly "Come!"
And calmly she went at the bidding.
For her work had been well done.

The funeral services were held at her late home the 18th, Rev. Mr. Curtis speaking words of hope and consolation. Surrounded by beautiful flowers, silent tokens of sincere sympathy to those nearest and dearest to her, was laid to rest.

On the old easy chair where she rested
We gaze with fast falling eyes;
And her work with its stitches untasked—
"em—
We turn from them all with deep sighs.

Yet we know she would bid us cease weeping,
For the Master's ways ever are best;
Tho' her form we last saw as if sleeping.

Her spirit roams free with the blest,
In that land of shimmering brightness
Where no clouds ever darken the sun;
Where the dwellers wear robes of pure whiteness.

Thy will, then, oh Father be done,
Addie Kendall Mason.
July 1909.

AN INTERESTING TRAMP.

Last Thursday afternoon an interesting figure upon our streets was Joe Mikulec a man who is to tramp 25,000 miles. He started from Cronalla, in Austria, Feb. 5, 1908 and is to walk 25,000 in 5 years. He has already traveled 18,500 miles and his experiences would fill a book. He has worn out forty pairs of shoes. Italy, France, Spain, Portugal, Africa, South America—where he was lost eight days in Brazilian forests—and all parts of the United States have been visited.

His point in view when he left Bethel was Montpelier, Vt., after which he will go into Canada, making his way to the Pacific coast, hence by steamer to Massachusetts, across Siberia to St. Petersburg, down through Southern Russia and through Turkey, Greece and Germany to his home, where he will get a grand reception and $10,000 if he completes his feat on time. It may be mentioned that Mikulec holds the record for one continuous walk without sleep, 120 miles.
Mikulec speaks excellent English though with an accent, and is in fact very fluent with the language. He speaks two or three other languages well, and can make himself understood in many more.

CARD OF THANKS.

Levi Garrett was discharged on the charge of being in the liquor business. He was in court last week and had the case continued. Officers Niles and Small found liquor in Garrett's house, but as they had found evidence against a roomer there and convicted him of selling booze, the court was inclined to think these liquors might belong to roomer besides Garrett, and as Garrett was not known to be in the business, he discharged him with the warning that the owner and occupant of a building was under some obligation to have an oversight of the business of its tenants.

J. S. DOW OF DICKVALE FISHED AND GOT CAUGHT HIMSELF. $5.00 AND COSTS.

Allen H. Norton of West Peru was complainant in the case against J. S. Dow of the Dickvale section of Peru, charged with violating the fishing law. "Lawrence Wigg, a small boy testified that he saw Dow catch fish on Hopkins stream, Monday, July 19. Ed. Wing, a young man testified to seeing Dow at the point where the alleged offense was committed. Did not see any fishing net or fish, but did see a fishing pole in Dow's hands. Saw Dow's wife and daughter with him.

Linwood Haines saw Dow cast his line in the stream. Saw the wife and daughter there. Inquiry by the court brought out the fact that Dow was on his own land. Dow has been a resident of the place but a year. He formerly lived in Helton.

Attorney Stevenson argued that as the record did not have the original law passed at the last legislature, governing fishing on the streams of Peru it was not within the province of the court to sentence the defendant. Judge Stevens thought otherwise, and in view of the fact that no plea of innocent was made by the defendant, he sentenced Dow to a fine of $5.00 and costs. At first Dow said he would appeal the case, but after consultation decided to pay the fine. The difficulty in Dow's mind seemed to be that he considered that he had a right to fish on his own land, for he had repeatedly warned others against fishing there. Finally Attorney Parker was not present to present the State's case, but as the record reflects most of the State's case we do not suppose anything can be suggested regarding the absence of the county Attorney. Nevertheless it was a case of breaking the fish and game laws of the State of Maine.

Not Wrong. Gracie—Do you think it is wrong to let on the record?

LIVE STOCK

SKIM MILK CALVES THRIVE. Those Fed by Bottle at Birth Soon Learn to Drink from Pail and Care for Themselves.

These youngsters are twins and as their mother died in giving birth to them they were raised on the milk of other cows.

At first they were fed from a bottle with a large nursing tube. Soon, however, they learned to drink from the bottle itself and when a few days old were able to drink from a pail.

They were fed whole milk until three weeks old and then were given one-half skim milk with one-half whole milk and a little bran once a day.

When six weeks old they began to nibble oats and hay and soon grew mightily.

LIVESTOCK NOTES.

Keep salt, either rock or barrel, along within reach of the cattle. Preference differ as to which kind is best.

A little grain for the calves is essential and remember that the first year's growth is the most important in their lives.

Alfalfa mixed with other legumes and grasses will provide a great amount of food and a pleasing variety for all classes of cattle.

Forage crops for milking will keep the young stock growing and maintain the milk flow of the cows when the pastures get dry in late summer.

Don't let the high prices of wheat and feed grains induce you to curtail your live stock operations. Stock keeping is an absolute necessity in modern farming.

It's a great loss when the stock does not have plenty of green forage. Temporary pastures of the small grain provide fine pasture and are not nearly appreciated.

This season is unusually late and pastures are far behind the average season. It will pay to keep the pastures in good thrift and not have them grazed down to the roots at the beginning of summer.

The breeding bull should be kept in a thrifty condition at all times. He needs good care and feed to do this. The sire's physical condition at the time of breeding exerts much influence on the offspring.

One of the great advantages of mixed grasses for pasture is that different varieties mature at different seasons and some of them are at their prime feeding value at all times of the pasturing season.

USING A LANTERN IN STABLE

Method of Placing Light in Barn to Get Best Results; No Danger of Overturning.

A good way to get a good light in stable and avoid all danger of the lantern being overturned is to stretch a smooth wire from one end of the barn to the other just back of the horses' stalls. Hang a lantern on a common harness snap and attach it to the wire and slide the lantern wherever it is needed. The wire should be high enough to be out of the way.

Sheep Manure.

Prof. Roberts of Cornell University, says the fertilizer produced by a sheep in a year is worth $1.17. While the most of this is left in the pasture, its value to the farmer depends much upon the condition of the grass there. Many of our pastures are in such condition that they need breaking up and reseeding as much as they do fertilizers, and until something is done to remedy this trouble the value of the manure made by the sheep would be somewhat lessened. We know that the sheep improves the pasture by killing many varieties of weeds, and thus gives the grass a better chance, but the sheep should not be forced to live entirely upon weeds.

Feeding Cows.

Animals of the same variety are not alike, and scarcely any two will do equally well on the same food. Each animal's wants should be well supplied, if possible. Cattle of different ages should be separated for feeding, as the weaklings will not do well with the strong. Cows are weak and shy. It takes them longer to eat their meals and they should therefore be put where they can not be bothered by superior in strength.

Washing Pigs.

Pigs should be at least eight weeks old before they are washed, and if it is not intended that the sow should have a second litter it is best to allow the pig to suckle until they are ten to twelve weeks of age.

Calls to Horses.

If the horses are taken off dry food, allowed to run to grass and water and on hot days, look out for colic. The horse that sweats freely is in good condition.

GROW YOUR OWN DAIRY FEED

Home Grown Alfalfa and Cow Pea Hay Are Found to Be Valuable by Tennessee Dairymen.

(Copyright, 1909.)
Too many dairy farmers are running to the mills and feed stores for supplies for their dairy cows. They know they need concentrates, but do not study the problem of feeding to a conclusion. Down in Tennessee they raise a great deal of cow pea hay and think much of it. Northern farmers might raise more to advantage. They are also beginning to know what alfalfa is down there, and they are feeding it largely in many sections of the state.

The Tennessee experiment station has helped the farmers immensely by experimenting with the different feeds for dairy and beef cattle. The investigators find that the cost of milk can be greatly reduced by replacing a part of the concentrates in the daily ration of the cow with some roughness rich in protein, such as alfalfa or cow pea hay.

It is an advantage to feed a dry roughness, which is intended to replace a part of the concentrates in a ration, with silage, because of its succulent and palatable nature.

A ton of alfalfa or cow pea hay may be produced at a cost of from $3.00 to $5.00, whereas wheat bran costs from $3.00 to $5.00. From two or three tons of cow pea hay and from three to five tons of alfalfa can be obtained from an acre of land; hence there is a great advantage in the utilization of these roughnesses in the place of wheat bran.

Alfalfa and cow pea hay cannot be substituted to the best advantage for cottonseed meal, as this foodstuff is so very rich in protein that a larger bulk must be consumed than the capacity of the average cow will permit.

The substitution of a roughness rich in protein for an expensive concentrate will enable the dairyman to make milk and butter at a less cost and will thus solve one of his most serious problems.

In substituting alfalfa hay for wheat bran it will be best to allow one and one-half pounds of alfalfa to each pound of wheat bran, and the results are likely to prove more satisfactory if the alfalfa is fed in a finely chopped condition.

These tests indicate that with alfalfa hay at $10 a ton and wheat bran at $10 the saving effected by substituting alfalfa for wheat bran would be $2.00 for every 100 pounds of butter and 19.3 cents for every 100 pounds of milk.

The farmer could thus afford to sell his milk for 19.3 cents a hundred less than he now receives and his butter for about 22 cents, as compared with 15 cents a pound.

These experiments show why alfalfa has been frequently used as a basis of manufactured foodstuffs, and indicate that the farmer who can grow it makes a mistake in purchasing artificial stuffs of which it forms the basis.

When alfalfa was fed under the most favorable conditions a gallon of milk was obtained for 5.7 cents and a pound of butter for 10.4 cents. When cow pea hay was fed the lowest cost of a gallon of milk was 5.2 cents and of a pound of butter 9.4 cents. In localities where peas have grown well it can be utilized to replace wheat bran, and in sections where alfalfa can be grown this crop can be substituted for cow pea hay with satisfaction.

PROFIT IN MAKING BUTTER

If High Grade Can Be Made at Home with a Good Market It Pays Well.

There is good profit in making butter at home, if you can make a high grade product and have a good market for it. The creamery pays you only for an exact pound of butter fat, with two or three pounds of milk thrown in for nothing. Churning the cream at home, you save the cost of churning which the creamery charges for, you gain about 15 per cent, in weight of the butter; and you gain the buttermilk. These combined gains amount to about 25 per cent., or one pound in every four. In other words, you make about 25 cents on every dollar's worth of butter, if you make it good butter as the creamery product.

By the use of the hand separator it is possible to make the highest grade of butter at home, provided the cream is properly handled and churned. By the use of the separator you are not only able to make a higher grade of butter and sell it for a higher price, but you will be able to extract more cream from the milk and hence make more butter. Also, the warm sweet skim milk will have a higher food value either for human use or for animal feeding. If you keep more than three or four cows, by all means buy a separator. It will soon pay for itself.

Hints for the Dairy.

Here are a few hints as to how a dairyman can improve his milk. Use plenty of sawdust. Clip the flanks. Avoid feeding directly before milking. Use small top pails. Milk with clean hands. Cool the milk quickly and keep it cold. There are only three requirements for good milk, simply healthy cows, cleanliness and cold.

FROM THE SIGHT-SEER'S NOTE BOOK.

The Sightseer reads an old story and tells it for a new one and is informed that it is thirty years old. He now ventures to tell a story, that applies to Congressman Swasey, to the Citizen Readers. If it is old or not throw "chestnuts." The Sightseer astonishes a minister by a slip of the tongue.

The Sightseer recently read an anecdote, in the Saturday (Phil.) Post, told of General Benjamin F. Butler. It was printed as new, and some contributor received a compensation for it. The Sightseer thinking it a brand new one, as well as very good, went out on the street in search of someone to tell it to—some one not so young as not to have remembrance of the striking and peculiar methods employed by Butler in his deals with law and the makers and enforcers of it. He seized upon a man whom he thought filled the requirements, and told the story. The man replied, "I read that more than thirty years ago." Now for aught that the Sightseer knows the story may have been told of Gen. Jackson, or some other hero of past times. The story is of the incident of the "Muzzled Dog."

The General was elated into court to be fined for not muzzling his little black and tan dog, weight about four pounds. The dog was produced by the General and said to be properly muzzled according to law. The court upon examination found a small muzzle on the dog's tail. The General blandly read the statutes to the court, which was to the effect that every dog should wear a muzzle. The court was about to impose a fine, when Butler objected, saying "the law does not say where the dog shall wear a muzzle. My dog is properly muzzled, and it will be useless for the court to fine me."

This is a sort of a breakever for the following story told the Sightseer about our genial Congressman John P. Swasey. The scribble feels that in the by-gone years he has heard the story told of some former celebrity in law; but it is now told by a local man, and as it is quite applicable the Sightseer retells it.

Mr. Swasey once upon a time had an apprentice (that is not just what a law student is called but do not worry over that) and the two of them were counsel for a man charged with a serious crime, and whom the evidence shows to be guilty. The junior counsel was to make the final plea for the respondent, and not having much experience asked our matter-of-fact congressman if he should make a long or short plea.

Mr. Swasey is reported to have said "Your duty as counsel is to keep the man out of jail, is it not?"

"Of course," was the response.

"Well then make a long plea for the longer you speak the longer you will keep the man out of jail, for they can't put him there while you are engaging the attention of the Judge with your speech."

Rev. E. H. Barber, the Universalist minister, supplying at Rumford, in a casual conversation with the Sightseer, said "I am going to take a ride this afternoon with one of your law yers. So you see the law and the gospel will be joined." The Sightseer observed in reply that they were on a par. Mr. Barber looked as though the ministers had received a hard knock, and as he was about to say something to that effect, he became aware that in so doing he was casting reflections upon the profession of the law, and began to doubt whether or not the Seribe was knocking or complimenting the profession of the ministry. The Sightseer does not yet know just what the clergyman thought, but he will say that if all ministers were of the character of Mr. Barber it would never be necessary for "slips of the tongue," of the kind that the Seribe was guilty of, to occur.

A woman with sallow face should never wear jet. Dull gold ornaments, on the other hand, would be decidedly pretty.

To white-haired women jet is suited, and for them also dull gold, set with onyx, is both charming and distinctive.

The middle-aged woman, with pretty gray hair and a white skin, with a little color under it, will find coral most becoming.

For the woman with blue or blue-gray eyes and gray hair, amethyst, set in dull silver, is an excellent choice.

Rubies are too brilliant for the average elderly woman, although with certain dark skins and iron gray hair they are pleasing.

Final Touch to Costumes.

"It is strange how a little thing will give an air to a costume," said a West Philadelphia woman. "I have a friend who has a pronounced olive complexion. That woman knows how to whiten her complexion without adding a bit of powder."

"How does she do it? She always wears a tiny bit of black velvet close to her face."

"Perhaps it is just a band about the collar, but however she manages it she wears it close to her face."

"This makes it quite possible to wear a gown which otherwise would be unbecoming, for the black whitens her skin wonderfully."

Fans Come Back.

Fans, which were rather tabooed for awhile, have returned to fashion. They come in the color of the gown that is worn.

COMBINES TRAY AND TABLE.

One of the Recent Inventions Designed to Save Space in the Modern Flat.

As life is becoming more complex, inventive geniuses are turning their attention in directions which will help preserve the balance. Inasmuch as the modern household requires a greater variety of furnishings to meet the increased social demands, while the average home occupies less space than formerly, it has been found necessary to manufacture articles of multiple uses. One of the latest of these is the folding tea tray, which is constructed on the principle of the folding sewing table, but is an entirely different article. To see a maid entering the room with one of these contrivances, laden with tea, coffee or chocolate, as the case may be, and the accompanying cups, saucers, sugar and cream, the unknowing guest would think she was bearing a tray only. Then, when she reaches the spot where her mistress desires the table placed, the maid presses with her thumbs two buttons on either side of the tray and legs spring out from the bottom, as if by magic, transforming the affair into a substantial table.

Many Points Which It Will Be Well to Remember When Making Your Selection.

The girl who is choosing a serviceable coat suit for everyday wear from now until October should regard these points:

It is as old fashioned to cut off a coat half way between the knees and hips as between knees and ankles.

Coats are single-breasted, rarely double-breasted.

New models still show straight panel backs, which hang for several inches lower than the sides. Those panels are also pointed as well as straight.

Sleeves are still small and reach to the wrist, and many of them show flat, fitted cuffs.

Three-button cutaway coats are made in all materials.

Lovers are often omitted. Flat trimming is put around the neck and a Dutch collar of baby Irish lace is added at the back.

Sleeveless coats are being made up in summer materials, and they will prove quite comfortable in hot weather. The sides should be joined at the hips, if not above.

Jewelry for the Elderly Woman.

It is an axiom that all jewelry is not becoming to all people.

In spite of a belief to the contrary, diamonds do not look well on the majority of middle-aged people.

Their intense brightness makes eyes and hair and skin duller by contrast, so that only women who have retained much of their youthful coloring may wear them successfully.

They may be worn in the hair, or as buckles or pins in the trimming of the gown, but close to the skin they are likely to emphasize wrinkles and other imperfections, where such exist.

A woman with sallow face should never wear jet. Dull gold ornaments, on the other hand, would be decidedly pretty.

To white-haired women jet is suited, and for them also dull gold, set with onyx, is both charming and distinctive.

The middle-aged woman, with pretty gray hair and a white skin, with a little color under it, will find coral most becoming.

For the woman with blue or blue-gray eyes and gray hair, amethyst, set in dull silver, is an excellent choice.

Rubies are too brilliant for the average elderly woman, although with certain dark skins and iron gray hair they are pleasing.

Final Touch to Costumes.

"It is strange how a little thing will give an air to a costume," said a West Philadelphia woman. "I have a friend who has a pronounced olive complexion. That woman knows how to whiten her complexion without adding a bit of powder."

"How does she do it? She always wears a tiny bit of black velvet close to her face."

"Perhaps it is just a band about the collar, but however she manages it she wears it close to her face."

"This makes it quite possible to wear a gown which otherwise would be unbecoming, for the black whitens her skin wonderfully."

Fans Come Back.

Fans, which were rather tabooed for awhile, have returned to fashion. They come in the color of the gown that is worn.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDEN, 2116 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

THE BABY PRINCESS.

A nation is rejoicing. Because from plights forlorn, They've been saved by the baby Who unto them is born. While it is tiny fingers It holds the nation's life; Its first fatal cry, was promise Of freedom from war's strife.

Upon this new-born infant Is fixed a nation's eyes; Thrice welcomed is its coming As blessing and as prize; Be they and so helpless! Yet it betokens fate, To bar the foreign ruler, Protector of the state.

Yet, only on scale mighty, This babe is different; From other human babies From God's own heaven sent; For 'tis their tiny fingers "Round human hearts feel curled, Which make them home protectors, Real rulers of the world."

Lighting the Fire.

A fire broke out one night in one of the smaller towns of Massachusetts, whereupon its newly-equipped fire department, composed of volunteers, was called on to show what it could do.

Only one lantern could be found, the smoke was pouring out of the building, and the night was dark. Finally a small tongue of fire appeared and a cheer went up as the firemen turned the hose in that direction.

At this moment the captain cried out: "Look out what you're doing there! Keep that water off that! It's the only light we've got to put out the fire by!"—Lippincott's.

Revised Version.

Simplex—Miss Cashleigh proposed to me three times during the last month of leap year, but I couldn't make up my mind to accept her. Hammetton—What is she worth? Simplex—Nearly half a million.

Hammetton—Well, all that I've got to say is that a fool and another fool's money are hard to unite.

True to Training.

Generous Lady—Here, my little boy, I know you are hungry for a box of these animal crackers.

Boy—Much obliged, lady, but my folks is vegetarians.—Judge.

IN FRONT.

Miss Hix—I always knew my brother would make his way to the front.

Mrs. Hix—And has he?

Mrs. Hix—Yes. He started in as a coadjutor and now he's a motorman.

DESTINED TO PROVOKE A SMILE, COAX A TEAR, CAUSE A TUG AT THE HEART STRINGS, CAST A GLEAM OF LIGHT INTO THE DARKEST CORNERS AND BRING A THRILL OF JOY INTO EVERY LIFE WHICH THEY TOUCH.

SOME TIME.

Some time, when all life's lessons have been learned,
And when the stars forevermore have set,
The things which our weak judgments have
Have been learned,
The things which we have learned with
Will then be as our life's dark night,
As stars which are in deeper lists of

were right,
And what most seemed reproach was now most true.

THE ANCHOR.

(By Henry Boyd Turner.)
We watched the gentle breeze go past,
That strange, bright afternoon—our last.
Familiar in the old place,
Safely the moments moved space,
Tossing as we would mark the beat
Of the unfeeling city street,
World answer to the call that stirred
Our still content; today we heard
Over and over, as one knew
A patient clerk's appointed word,
"The long, long years—the long, long years."

It is needed in our hearts the cry
Of a forsaken heritage,
As we stole out to say goodbye
In a last pilgrimage.
All down the bordered walk quaint
And of roses reaching dainty hands;
The white gate would have stayed our feet;
Outside, the clover, summer-sweet,
Horrid and slipped through and through
With every fragrant breeze that blew.
We chose the grassy lane upward
To the lowly meadow ground—
Caplike between the hills and dim
With blue air shimmering to the brim.
The corn-field next. "Twould not be long."

Before those sturdy ranks and strong,
Weary and old and dispossessed,
Patched quiet tents for rest.
A step beyond, the north wind spread,
Their camped and carpeted,
The acres were, that, gently here,
Singing came, an eager pioneer
With a low call to bid and bid
Before the world was sure the stirred.
The very breath of things stood still.
Above, the old house on the hill,
Blending and blending, with its high,
Straight chimney reaching to the sky,
Seemed to be watching, guardian wise.

Looking with clear, unshattered eyes,
"Here home!" We heaved on to see,
Home, forgetting nothing.
So led the path, a shining way
Gleamed with light of passing day.
At the gray fence the bars were down,
The orchard were a ready gown;
Tall cedars, fair and slender-stemmed,
Showered low branches, berry-gemmed,
Wild honeysuckle, tangled, old,
Her fragrant garlands far and wide,
Up to the boundary ledge. And there,
Leaving to read the sunset sky,
We saw below us, suddenly,
The little graveyard square,
No solemn, no serene a thing!
Our mate eyes met, remembering.

She asked, "Ah, think, when we are gone
He will be sleeping here alone—
So little and so lonely here
When night like this is creeping near!"
The cedars wayed in sighing ways
On her bowed head their shadow lay.
My words were weak. She understood
How heaven told his babyhood
Safe, happy, where it might not miss
Our memory she granted this.
Each promise was a comforter,
Naming him with the dead dead...
And yet, when all was told, the words,
"We laid him here came while he slept!"

"I am the mother heart of her
It was his mother's bed."
"Nay, at the last we cannot go.
Whatever takes us, weal or woe,
Remembrance for all the years to come,
This must be home!"
We met the twilight hand to hand,
Gazing across the darkened land,
Past the hushed wood, the dreaming stream.

The children, clanked by the worn
Old way that led us here before,
Remembrance, remembrance, we had tried,
And entered in and shut our doors—
We and the home of the little child,
And the peace of God.

"Father," said the youngest,
"What's the use of crying with?"
"Hush, dear heart. He's got three wishes."
The youngest looked at the others
as though he were at sea.
"What's the use of crying with?"
"Hush, dear heart. He's got
three wishes."

BEST WAY TO WASH PILLOWS

Process That is Somewhat Tedious but Really the Only Means for Satisfaction.

You can also wash your feather pillows perfectly well if you select a bright day, empty the feathers into a cheesecloth bag and then wash them in strong soap suds and a little ammonia. To transfer the feathers, first rip open one end of the ticking, then paste the end of the cheesecloth bag over it, and not till this is carefully done, work the feathers into the bag, after the hot water and soap rinses the bag thoroughly in two or three waters, pulling the feathers apart
through the bag with your hands.
Then without squeezing, hang on the line in the sun to drip dry.

While drying, pull the bag apart every now and then, after which beat the bag with a rattan whip for ten or fifteen minutes to make the feathers fluffy. Meantime the tick should have been laundered ready for the return of the feathers.

It is quite a tedious process, you see, but a most effective one. I wonder that more people do not think of laundering feathers they have had on hand for years, as a glimpse inside an old pillow sometimes discloses conditions that would rob you of all sleep
if you knew of them.—Exchange.

BATHING COSTUME FOR BOY.

Perhaps the Very Best is the One
Made on Lines of the Russian Blouse.

A bathing suit for her dear, chubby boy is one of the questions that is agitating mother right now. Only by the merest chance may any hear, unless it is told her in black and white, that one of the easiest to make and most satisfactory for general daily wear is the Russian blouse bath suit.
It is made over his very own blouse pattern, bloomers and all.

Every one of the suits for small children should be made of woolen material. Either cream or blue serge is perhaps most satisfactory in the long run because it does not thicken up the way flannel does. Yes, the blouse, with its belt, is only an overgarment, but the bloomers are made with an underwaist of their own; and to assure Tom's not taking cold there is not a better scheme than the fastening of the bloomers to a cut down and sleeveless woolen under-vest.

A PARISIAN STYLE.

In burnt straw, with crown covered with frills of lace. Black satin shoes.

Incense Had Increasing.
There is a craze for incense, and the Japanese have sent it over to us in a bewildering number of forms, all of which are diminutive, as is to be expected from that land of little men and little things. Animals are the popular incense bearers, and you may have a stick to breathe forth the fumes for you, or a fierce-looking dragon, or a wise old owl, or even a curious, hideous reptile if your taste runs that way. There is as much variety in the kind of incense as there is in the animal holders of it, and as it is most fascinating to try the various kinds summer homes and verandas are likely to take on a delicately Oriental atmosphere.

Last Year's Elbow Sleeves.
Nothing is quite so depressing as looking over one's last year's summer wardrobe and noting how hopelessly confined and impossible the short-sleeved blouses look. One woman has hit upon a clever way to lengthen the sleeves to this year's requirement.
She slashes up the outer side of the sleeves and inserts a long panel of lace and embroidery, which extends from arm hole to wrist. The inner edge of the sleeve is reinforced by plain fabric like the blouse, the seaming at the elbow being disguised by a group of little embroidery touches, many of the new little sleeves showing these little touches at the lower edge of the arm.

New Flower Holders.
These are the better plan, a latticed pattern like a small round centerpiece.
The bottom is glass, and there are four other tiers fast to hold it. The top is covered with a wire netting which supports the flowers and makes it easy to arrange them attractively.

Quotations for Evening.
Familiar quotations that look as if they were gathered with down of dew are the newest changes for evening gowns.

WIT AND WISDOM.

We have all made many mistakes; some of them far-reaching in consequence.
When we are making a mental invoice of our habits we will find the bad ones; ones that cause others suffering, and we must unmake them as we made them. It is as long a way out of mistake as it was in.
Deep experiences of the soul that will keep the human heart mellow and life gentle will come to us through mistakes we make, through suffering that comes to us through many sources.

DAYS OF DIZZINESS.

Come to Hundred of Maine People.

There are days of dizziness; Spells of headache, sideache, backache; Sometimes rheumatic pains; Often urinary disorders. All tell you plainly the kidneys are sick.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

Here is proof in Bethel. C. H. Heath, living on Railroad St., Bethel, Me., says: "I am only too glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. In my case backaches and headaches were frequent. I often became very dizzy and the kidney secretions were very unnatural. During the night the secretions were too frequent and caused me great annoyance. Someone told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured them from W. E. Rosserman's drug store. The first few doses helped me, and in several weeks I was entirely cured. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this great change."

ORDERS KEPT VERY BUSY.

A prominent physician of Baltimore tells of an amusing experience of the early days of his practice when he was residing in a small town where by far the majority of the workers were coal miners.

"I was greatly distressed by the insupportable conditions prevailing in their cottages," says the doctor, "and among other things I tried to explain to each household the importance of maintaining a wholesome atmosphere in the sleeping rooms. I told in a stock of thermometers, which were distributed to the households where they were most needed. I took pains to point out to each family in turn how the thermometer would indicate the proper degree of temperature."

"As I was making the rounds one day I inquired of the woman at the head of the establishment, wherein I observed my thermometer proudly displayed at the end of a string, whether she followed my instructions."

"Yes, sir," answered she. "I'm very careful about the temperature. I watch the thing all the time as it hangs up there."

"What do you do when the temperature rises above 68?"

"I take it down, sir, an' put it outside till it cools off a bit."

NO USE FOR BILLS.

Telephone Protection

A SUBSCRIBER'S STORY—

As told to an official of the Traffic Dept.

ABOUT one o'clock this morning I accidentally overturned the telephone, which stood on a small table by my bedside, and it fell to the floor. As I picked it up I heard the operator say "number!" I explained what had happened, and apologized for having troubled him. He replied in an exceedingly pleasant tone of voice: "It's all right—no trouble at all, madam." I wish you would express to him my appreciation of his courtesy. I assure you I resumed my slumber with a new sense of security at the thought that some one was so near in case of need.

Telephone "Protection"

ASSURES Telephone "Security"

With a telephone in your house there is always "someone near in case of need."

In case of illness, it will outspeed any messenger in summoning a doctor.

(Incidentally, in desperate emergencies doctors have saved lives by giving instructions by wire.)

It will call the fire department ere you could run to the box on the corner.

It will bring the police, should skulkers lurk about.

Its mere presence will give the absent husband assurance that wife and children are protected.

Likewise will its presence reassure the wife and children, dispel their nervousness and banish loneliness.

The value of such a service is not to be measured by the number of calls made, any more than police protection is measured by the number of arrests, or fire protection by the number of alarms answered.

One emergency call may outweigh in value a lifetime of cost. Let us show you how small will be the insurance charge for protection to your home and security to your family.

Telephone the Local Manager (free of charge) and a Contract Agent will call.
